Scan your drive to recover lost and deleted files. No need to take a trip to the photolibrary in the blink of an eye. eIMAGE Recovery stores recovered files on a separate drive and overwrites the original data with them. You just need to select the option "Restore as deleted files". Photos are displayed in any view as you could expect them to be - in jpg, tif, mpg, mov, mp4, wav and other, appropriate extensions.Even though the Olympics end today, with more than 9,000 athletes from 194 countries competing for medals, one thing is for sure: the Olympics have changed the face of volunteering. More and more people are using the "Olympics Effect" to donate their time and talents and share in the spirit of international good will. On the official website for the 2012 London Olympics, there are stories of volunteers at home and abroad who are encouraging children to come out for the games or training with disabled athletes. There are dozens of stories of people who did some interesting things in the name of sport. The holiday season is coming up, and it will be good for the spirit to think about some ways to give back to others, starting with your fellow Canadians. In the spirit of the Olympics, there's a simple exercise to help you think of ways you can help others before the games end: 1. What can you do to share the Olympic spirit and give back to the community? 2. What can you do to work to make Canada a more peaceable place? Here are some of the ways people around the world are getting involved during the Olympics: • The Olympic Movement is the largest of its kind in the world, with more than 2.5 million volunteers. Many are asking people to give something back and volunteer their time this summer. • The Queen has invited Canadians to consider the role they might play to help make the Olympics a success. She will meet Canadian athletes at a summit in Banff on Nov. 30. • Canadian volunteers will be involved at the Olympic games as chefs, ushers and in other ways. • For more information, visit www.olympics.ca/volunteer. • The Olympic Games truly is an international event. More than 60,000 volunteers from around the world will be involved in some capacity. Most of us remember the feeling of seeing "Olympic

This is a major problem with how the website works so is there a way to update the site when the changes are pushed to a database with code or something? A: Ektron is not designed for multi-user situations. If you cannot do a manual save of your content when you are ready for it to be saved, you may not be able to do this at all. If you need functionality like that, I would suggest you look into SPEAK. Q: Get ids of tags in Python I have a website that has html like this: This is a text This is a text This is a text This is a text
